in Midlothian, Virginia

The South Hill Chamber of Commerce Spotlight winner for the month of November was Frank De Stefano with De Stefano Architectural Group in Midlothian Virginia. They have been members of the chamber for several years and Frank is a regular at the chamber lunches. According their website their “goal in the planning of any building space is to achieve a functional, economical, and aesthetically pleasing environment. Before beginning the conceptual design, consideration is given to the client’s needs, budget, schedule, environmental impact, passive and active solar applications, energy consideration through design, placement of structure on site to the best advantage, configuration of the facility in harmony with the surrounding, and enabling the users to experience their maximum potential.”

Also according to their site within the building itself, they consider the user functions, such conditions as inter-relationships of people, traffic flow, maximized use of heating, cooling, plumbing and electrical systems, security measures and parking are given prime consideration.

Careful management and a trained and competent staff enable us to prepare construction documents and specifications with a thoroughness that has become natural to us. Refinement of planning involved in meeting time schedules has become an integral part of our services.

The professionalism with which they approach their work is evident in the ever-expanding repertoire of successful buildings to our credit.
